HER CAT IN HER POCKET.

Bismarck Travels In State Wherever His Mistress Goes.

A woman walked into the breakfast room of one of Chicago's swell hotels, dressed in traveling costume and carrying on her arm a cape of plaid cloth, which she hung over the chair next at table, disposing of it with some care, as if it might be of value.

Then she gave her attention to the menu and discussed a service of fruit while she waited for her order. She was roused from a pleasing study of her plate by a series of "Ohs" and "Ahs" and "What a darling!" and a hasty glance showed her a big white Angora cat seated gracefully on the vacant chair at her side.

"Oh, Bismarck, you dreadful cat!" she said, as the head waiter approached with a look in his eye that boded no good to the cat.

"I must put him out, madam," he said, with the assurance that goes with head waiters.

But his mistress clicked her fingers and the cat disappeared. Every eye was upon him, yet no one saw him go. The waiter looked on the chair and under it, but pussy had vanished like a dream.

"Find the cat—he is in the picture somewhere," remarked the owner of the pet, as she buttered her toast. But the cat did not come back, and it was not until the woman had finished her breakfast and was leaving the table, with her traveling cape thrown over her arm, that the mystery of the animal's disappearance was explained, and pussy's head was allowed to peep from a capacious inside pocket in that cape.

"He has traveled in that pocket from the Pacific coast, and this is the first time he has given away his hiding place," said his mistress. "He will not purr for fear of being found, but he is near his journey's end now and is getting tired. This cape is his exclusive property, and the pocket is his private car."—Chicago Times-Herald.

A SPANISH BRAVADO.

A Striking Description of the Daring and Courage Displayed by the Retired General Who Would Not Permit an Englishman to Outdo Him.

The realistic Spanish novelist, Valdes, in one of his most popular stories ("Sister San Suplicio," translated by Nathan Haskell Dole) gives a description of a retired Spanish general's afternoon out which will illuminate many chivalric incidents in Spanish life and aptly illustrates the reckless daring and courage of which the average haughty don is liberally possessed. The scene is a sort of picnic grounds in the outskirts of Seville.

"Meantime the animation had been on the increase among the ruffians. The period of unmanly action had come. One of them climbed upon the table to make a speech, and the others, by way of applause, threw sherry and manzanilla in his face. Another was trying to lift with his teeth a companion whom drunkenness had stretched out on the floor. He did not succeed. He merely tore his sack coat. Still others were committing absurd and extravagant actions, making a great noise and uproar. The count remained grave and silent, drinking one glass of sherry after another. But his eyes were no longer, as usual, incomprehensible and unfathomable, like those of a man tired of life. Though he did not speak or move about he seemed a different man.

"The Englishman had taken off his jacket and waistcoat, and, rolling up his shirt sleeves, was exhibiting his biceps, which were really powerful, and trying to break empty bottles on his arm. Once blood had come, but he went on breaking the bottles without paying any attention to it. Then he asked the waiter to bring a bottle of rum and a large glass. He filled this to the brim with the liquor, and then slowly, without moving a muscle or even winking, he drained it to the bottom. Then he sat down at the table opposite the count and said solemnly:

"You can't do that!" "A flash of fury gleamed through the hard-browned nobleman's eyes, but he succeeded in restraining himself, and, turning the rest of the bottle into the glass, he calmly ordered the waiter to bring him some pepper. He threw in a pinch of it, then threw into it his cigar ashes heaped up before him, and, without saying a word, with the same scornful, contemptuous smile, drained the glass, and, not content with that, bit it in pieces. We saw his lips spotted with blood. The company received with oles and shouts of triumph this proof of an unconquerable stomach, in which it seemed as though the national honor were concerned.

"Our neighbors in the other booths must have reached the same happy grade of temperature, for nothing was heard but ex-vagant shouts, the crashing of glasses, coarse laughter and swearing.

"The count was not yet satisfied with his victory over the Englishman. While he was swallowing with apparent calmness the glasses of liquor which were offered to him he did not cease to devour him with his eyes, carried away by a dull madness, which soon broke out. His eyes, which were the only part of his impassive face that moved, gleamed more and more ferociously, like those of a madman when a straightjacket has been put on him. The Englishman continued to boast of his strength. He was now thoroughly intoxicated and talking impudently enough to the others, who were not so drunk.

"So you are very valiant, are you?" asked the count, still smiling disdainfully.

"More than you," retorted the Englishman.

"Don Jenaro started to spring at him, but the others restrained him. Soor calming himself, he said:

"If you are so brave, why not put your hand on the table?"

"What for?"

"To pin it down with mine."

"The Englishman, without an instant's hesitation, stretched out his huge, brawny hand. The count took out of his pocket a damasked dagger and laid his delicate, gentlemanly hand on the Englishman's, and without hesitation and with a ferocious grip he raised the point with the other and drove it through both into the table.

"The women uttered a cry of terror. All of us men ran to their assistance. A few left the place in search of help. In an instant our booth was filled with blood. From the wounds great drops of blood streamed, staining the handkerchiefs which we applied to them.

"A doctor who happened to be among the bystanders dressed the wounds provisionally with the few means at his disposal. The count smiled while they were dressing his hand. The Englishman was as sick as a horse and vomiting. Soon the count was doing the same, and both were taken to suffer rooms as the establishment had to offer and went to bed. Every one left, commenting on the barbarism of the deed."

Parsnip Complexion.

It does not require an expert to detect the sufferer from kidney trouble. The hollow cheeks, the sunken eyes, the dark, puffy circles under the eyes, the sallow parsnip-colored complexion indicates it.

A physician would ask if you had rheumatism, a dull pain or ache in the back or over the hips, stomach trouble, desire to urinate often, or a burning or scalding in passing it; if after passing there is an unsatisfied feeling as if it must be at once repeated, or if the urine has a brick dust deposit or strong odor. When these symptoms are present, no time should be lost in removing the cause.

Delay may lead to gravel, catarrh of the bladder, inflammation, causing stoppage, and sometimes requiring the drawing of the urine with instruments or may run into Bright's Disease, the most dangerous stage of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great discovery of the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, is a positive remedy for such diseases. Its reputation is world-wide and it is so easy to get at any drug store that no one need suffer any length of time for want of it.

However, if you prefer to first test its wonderful merits, mention the Seymour REPUBLICAN and write to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. for a sample bottle and book telling all about it, both sent absolutely free by mail.

EASY FOR MORPHY.

A Story of the Great Chess Master and a Celebrated Painting.

On reading the notes on Paul Morphy's visit to Philadelphia I am reminded of an incident in connection with his visit to Richmond about the same time, which was related to me some years ago by the Rev. Mr. H. of that city. I do not remember ever to have seen it in print. Mr. Morphy was Mr. H.'s guest while in the city, and on his arrival was first ushered into the library, and his attention was at once attracted by a painting over the mantel, which was a fine copy of a celebrated painting representing a game of chess between a young man and the devil, the stake being the young man's soul.

The artist had most graphically depicted the point in the game where it was apparently the young man's move, and he seemed just to realize the fact that he had lost the game, the agony of despair being shown in every line of his features and attitude, while the devil from the opposite side of the table gloated over him with fiendish delight. The position of the game appeared utterly hopeless for the young man, and Mr. H. said he had often set it up and studied it with his chess friends, and all agreed the young man's game was certainly lost.

Mr. Morphy walked up to the picture and studied it for several minutes, when finally, turning to Mr. H., he said:

"I can win the game for the young man."

Mr. H. was of course astonished and said, "Is it possible?"

Mr. Morphy replied, "Get out the men and board and let us look at it."

The position was set up, and in a few rapid moves he demonstrated a complete win for the young man, and the devil was checkmated.—Robert Munford in American Chess Magazine.

Hungarian Gypsy Minstrels.

The gypsy minstrels form a caste by themselves. Their appearance is always more swarthy than that of other Hungarian musicians, their dress is sometimes purposely fantastic, and their manner of life is far more Bohemian than the most liberal minded artist would care to own to. Every hotel and restaurant in Budapest possesses its gypsy band, and the method of payment is as free and easy as the music itself and their life. The hotel keeper is not bound by any contract, but at various intervals throughout the performance one of his gypsies takes a dinner plate and goes round among the various guests in the hall from table to table, receiving in the plate what the latter like to put there. The favorite coin deposited there is the nickel 10 kreutzer piece, answering to our two-pence. I have not often seen a florin or a kronen (half a florin). The whole collection is, as a rule, made up of twopences.—Good Words.

High Officials Take In Washing.

Samoa, Stevenson's island home and grave, is the only country in the world where its rulers and chief justices vie with each other in the honorable work of the laundry. There is no false pride about a chief of Samoa, who will discuss high politics with you one moment and the next make a tender for your washing. What is more, when he has executed the washing to your satisfaction he will ask you to give him a testimonial to that effect, with which to bait succeeding visitors.—New York Journal.

A TINY RESERVATION.

William Penn's Indian Tract Still Preserved in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia contains one relic of the days of William Penn which is unknown to most inhabitants of the Quaker City. It is a small portion of ground which still retains by virtue of a provision in the charter its original character. Right in the heart of the business section of the city it lies, the only place for miles around that bears no footprints of the march of progress and commerce, the only building lot in the city which has never been near the hands of a real estate agent.

You have but to go down Walnut street to Second, turn up Second until you come to a little iron gate on the east side of the street, swing it back and enter and you stand within the Indian reservation.

In the days when Philadelphia used to be the metropolis of the red men, and they came by various trails across the country and down the Delaware to hold council there, it grew necessary for them to have some appointed spot for their conclaves. William Penn dedicated this reservation to them as a trysting place and provided that it should be sacred to their use forever.

It is a foreign enough place now, shut in as it is by high buildings on nearly every side. The old Union Telegraph office confronts it on one side, a wholesale liquor dealer's store backs up against it on another, and a high board fence chokes off the last hope of any outlook from the place.

There is no mark to tell of its original use or to stamp it as one of the curiosities of the day. One's only solace for his grievance is to imagine that the stealthy tread of moccasined feet is still echoing there and that the strange words of the redskin's tongue have left some spell upon the place.

In size it is a poor comment upon Penn's generosity, for it scarcely affords room sufficient to turn a wagon and a pair of horses. Perhaps because of its microscopic dimensions there has never been any attempt to encroach upon the rights of the old reservation.

For more than a century it has stood in its native state in the midst of the great city, a relic of a pathetic past, an heirloom for owners who will never reclaim it.—New York Herald.

FIRE AT EWING.

A Dozen Business Houses Totally Destroyed.—A $25,000 Loss.

Last night about 1:30 o'clock fire broke out in the grocery store of Joe L. Goss, at Ewing, and in a short time spread to adjoining buildings. There was a high wind and with the small means at hand for fighting fire the residents were put at a disadvantage. The flames spread rapidly until a dozen buildings were consumed, and still others were in danger. But after hours of hard and faithful work the fire was under control, but not until the business interest of the town had sustained a loss of about $25,000.

The losses are estimated as follows: Philip W. Zabel, furniture, $5,000; insurance $5,000; Jos. L. Goss, grocery, $2,500 with $2,000 insurance on building and stock; C. A. Branaman, drugs, loss $2,000 with $1,200 insurance; William Crabb, grocery, loss $1,000 with $230 insurance; Mike Miller, dwelling and stables, loss $2,500 with $1,500 insurance. Other losses are John O'Mara, barber shop; Dr. Wilson, office and library; Elsie Sewell, stable, and probably others not learned here.

The fire was indeed a very unfortunate one for Ewing and a number of her enterprising business men.

Taken Back to Riply.

Sheriff Ed Aebel, of Versailles, came here and took Ed Lindsey to that place today. Lindsey is accused of burglarizing a hardware store at Milan and carrying off a lot of guns, revolvers, knives, scissors and other articles, which he brought and sold to people here. Lindsey is about 18 years old and when brought face to face he made a clean confession to the sheriff and city officials, admitting that he stole the goods.

JUDGE VOYLES DEAD.

Funeral and Burial Take Place at Salem Wednesday Afternoon.

Late yesterday afternoon a message was received here announcing the death of Judge Voyles at his home in Salem at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon. Earlier in the day his physicians stated that his condition was very much worse and that he could live but a short time.

Judge Voyles' illness began last May when he received a stroke of paralysis. Since then he has been wholly unable to perform his official duties. From the first it was the opinion of his friends, who knew his condition that he would never regain his health, though he seemed to have hopes that he would. His affliction was more serious than he ever seemed to realize.

The funeral takes place Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at Salem and will be in charge of the Masonic Lodge. The Seymour attorneys generally will attend.

Samuel Bigger Voyles was born in Washington county a few miles south of Salem. In 1861, when a young man he became a volunteer soldier, serving in Co. G 18th Indiana. After the war he began the study of law. He opened an office at Salem where he resided until his death. He was twice elected prosecuting attorney of the 42nd judicial circuit and then to the state senate and served his constituency with fidelity. He served for some time on the Indiana Soldiers' monument commission. In 1890 he was elected circuit judge and was re-elected in 1896. Judge Voyles was an able man and was held in high esteem by a large circle of friends.

Judge Marshall a Candidate.

William K. Marshall, of this city, is a candidate for the position on the bench made vacant by the death of Judge Voyles. He is at Indianapolis today to interview the governor who makes the appointment and to enlist the help of friends in his behalf. Judge Marshall has twice made the race for circuit judge but with little hope of election since the district is so largely democratic. He is a good lawyer and has served with ability as special judge in the trial of many cases. His many friends would be pleased to have this appointment come to him for it would be an honor well bestowed.

Everybody Will Go.

HAVE YOU GOT TROUBLE OF YOUR OWN?

If Not, Listen to Others' Troubles. If You Have, See if Your Trouble Is Like Other People's Troubles.

There are some kinds of trouble that are unavoidable. Then again there is trouble that is easily avoided if you know how to do it. Here is a true statement of Mrs. M. Langton of 321 Hanna St., Logansport, Ind., telling of her trouble and how she got entirely over it. She says: "I am well aware everyone has trouble without listening to mine, but I hope by telling mine I shall instruct others how to avoid theirs."

Forten years at least I have had more trouble with my kidneys, and back than can well be expressed on paper. It began with "Kidney Backache." I paid little attention to it at first but I see now where I made the mistake. The trouble increased and urinary disturbances followed. The urine was excessive in quantity, highly colored, of a strong odor and contained so much uric acid as to cause a burning sensation in its passage. Then I had sharp shooting pains and swelling of the limbs which became very painful. For the past five or six years several doctors have treated me for my trouble without arresting the progress of the disease. They knew what the trouble was and pronounced it kidney complaint. One doctor said he could do nothing for me and advised me to make my "will." When I arrived at this stage I became anxious to try any and everything. Some time ago I read about and tried Morrow's Kidney-cure. The recommendations were so high that I procured and used them strictly according to directions. After the first box was used I grew less nervous, and I rested well at night, which is something I had not experienced for months. I am now on the third box, and the help has been so great that I am glad to continue using them, believing that I have found a genuine cure. With all indications I shall soon be well. I desire all my friends to write to me and learn more about the wonderful remedy, Morrow's Kidney-cure.

This statement is convincing enough for the worst skeptic in Seymour. Write to Mrs. Langton and see for yourself. Kidney-cure is yellow tablets (not pills) and are sold by all first class druggists and at Alpha Cox's Drug Store at 50 cents a box. Accept no remedy "just as good" for there is none. Manufactured by John Morrow & Co., Chemists, Springfield, Ohio.

A TERRIBLE TRAGEDY

Josiah Bowers Shoots His Son-In-Law and Then Kills Himself.

READ HIS OWN OBITUARY

Curious Story in Which a Former Martinsville Man Figures—Family of Five Persons Mysteriously Poisoned and the Mother Is Not Likely to Recover—Medicine Killed Him.

Rochester, Ind., Nov. 22.—Josiah Bowers, who lived a few miles east of here, had a quarrel with his son-in-law, William Carr yesterday, which ended in Bowers shooting Carr through the loins, inflicting a wound which may prove fatal.

Bowers then shot himself, the bullet taking effect in his brains, causing instant death.

Bower's wife obtained a divorce at the last term of court. He was about 60 years of age and said to have been rather quarrelsome at times.

CURIOUS STORY

In Which a Fort Scott, Kan., Man, Formerly of Martinsville, Figures.

Fort Scott, Kan., Nov. 22.—W. R. Powell, a jewelry merchant of this city, formerly of Martinsville, Ind., received a copy of a Martinsville paper containing a 1,000-word obituary of himself, having been of a once prominent Martinsville family. Much space was given to what was supposed to be a history of his romantic life and the details of his death on his return trip from Liverpool to New York. Mr. Powell came west many years ago, and no more was heard of him at Martinsville until his death was reported there by William Walker, now of Decatur, who also lived in Martinsville, and happened on the ship on which the man traveling under Mr. Powell's name died.

Walker did not know Powell, having been born since he left Martinsville, but he had heard of his family, and when the Martinsville man introduced himself as Powell and talked knowingly of Martinsville folks, he had no suspicion that he was not whom he represented himself to be. The man died without divulging his real name, and Walker reported Powell's death.

FIVE WERE POISONED

Family of John Schwichert in a Precarious Condition at Princeton.

Princeton, Ind., Nov. 22.—John Schwichert, wife and three children were poisoned here, it is thought, by drinking from a bucket in which water had been standing for several hours. The attending physicians say there are indications of the presence of arsenic. How it came to be in the water is a mystery. First the children became deathly sick and then the parents were likewise attacked. The recovery of the mother is doubtful, but the remainder of the family is convalescing. An investigation will follow.

Pensions Granted.

Washington, Nov. 22.—Pensions have been granted to Indians as follows: Original—Frederick Armand, Madison, $6; Henry B. John, Indianapolis, $6; Patrick Reilly, Hammond, $6; Ernest Kaiser, Fort Wayne, $8; David Donaldson, Solitude, $12; Reissner—Orlin Ingols, Indianapolis, $6. Original Widows, etc.—Margaret Tom, Muncie, $8; Elizabeth E. Lawyer, Salisburyville, $8; Sarah J. Pfeiffer, Muncie, $8; Jennie C. Woolley, Columbus, $12; Mary J. Weaver, Mt. Summit, $8; Serena E. Dotson, Indianapolis, $8.

Alarming Case of Blood Poisoning.

Penn., Ind., Nov. 22.—Dr. E. H. Griswold, one of the leading physicians of this city, is suffering from blood poisoning in one arm, and his condition is causing alarm. It is believed that he contracted the disease several weeks ago, when he amputated the leg of Israel Minnie, who died from blood poisoning resulting from injuries sustained while endeavoring to prevent a team of frightened horses from running over some school children.

Medicine Killed Him.

Bremen, Ind., Nov. 22.—Michael Blue was found dead near here, and his death was believed to have resulted from heart disease. An investigation shows, however, that death was caused by taking too much medicine, which had been prescribed for a chronic ailment. His long continued illness and despondency gave credence to the theory of suicide.

Judge Voyles Dead.

Salem, Ind., Nov. 22.—Judge Samuel B. Voyles, aged 58, died yesterday. He leaves a widow and six children. Judge Voyles was born and raised on a farm about eight miles south of Salem. For a number of years he was the county prosecutor. He was at one time joint senator for Washington and Floyd counties. He was serving his second term as judge.

Prominent Society Woman Insane.

Greensburg, Ind., Nov. 22.—Mrs. Clara Pohlman, wife of John Pohlman, a prominent manufacturer of this city, is insane. There is no apparent cause for the affliction. Mrs. Pohlman is a prominent society woman, and much sympathy is felt for her unfortunate condition.

It is impossible to promise particular features that will appear in the "AMERICAN MONTHLY" during the coming year, for it is, as the Bookman says, "a great monthly newspaper." As such, it prints for its readers an illustrated account of the notable things which make the history of the month, of the political, the economic, and literary happenings which are of value to intelligent men and women. The Editor's "Progress of the World" tells succinctly an illustrated story of the month. The "Leading Articles" give the best thought and information of the current magazines in five continents; the contributed articles furnish the character sketches of the man of the month, and give timely discussions by authorities on any question of immediate serious import.

The result of this comprehensive effort to edit in one monthly volume the information needed by intelligent people of "live" instincts is best gauged in the opinions which the readers of the AMERICAN MONTHLY have seen fit to express. These are thinking business men, clergymen, editors, lawyers, professors, engineers, the wide-awake women of America. They write that the AMERICAN MONTHLY "is indispensable"; "is simply invaluable"; "is a generous library in itself"; "is a historical cyclopedia of the world"; "the best means of aid for a busy man"; "the best periodical of the kind we have ever had"; "a triumph of editorial genius"; "the world under a field-glass," etc., etc.
